

CBAI Thanks Congressman Darin LaHood (R-16th) for Co-Sponsoring Legislation

CBAI thanks Congressman Darin LaHood for being the first member of the Illinois congressional delegation to co-sponsor an important bill for community banks and their customers in the United States House of Representatives.

The Homebuyers Privacy Protection Act (H.R. 7297) - this is legislation that will require a consumer's consent for the sale of trigger leads by the credit bureaus or restrict the sale to lenders that have an existing mortgage relationship with the consumer.

This House bill was advocated for by a group of CBAI leadership bankers at an in-district meeting with Congressman LaHood in March, during CBAI's Call on Washington in early May, and again at a spring Economic Roundtable hosted by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago.

A strong advocacy effort is important to inform and encourage our elected officials to support legislation and regulations that help community banks thrive while serving their customers and communities.
